2. Admissions Policies

The IT/ICT industry is an integrated field of both information-related and management-related fields, and its targets are complex and diverse. Consequently, the IT industry's needs for promising talents are increasingly diversifying more than ever before. To date, it was not possible to satisfy Japan industry's diverse talent supply needs with the existing Japanese educational system, being solely dependent on developing engineering undergraduate degree students at engineering-related research graduate schools. Moving forward, in order to further develop Japanese industry and economy, it is important to train people of diverse backgrounds, by all means, as highly specialized professionals in the IT/ICT industry.

From these perspectives, our school has a policy to widely accept as many students of diverse background as possible without specific restrictions on the type of undergraduate degree obtained.

1. People who have the foundational academic ability to learn specialized knowledge at our school;
